BESIDE THE BAY OF MONTEREY.

Beside the bay of Monterey,
When morn is on the mountains,
What joy to hear and know not fear,
The cry of seabird fountains!

Across the bay of Monterey
The sea fog, thin, drifting,
The land reveals of shore conceals,
Soft specks, like magic, shifting.

Beside the bay of Monterey
I come to walk at even,
When softened eyes from sunset skies
Steal on the sapphire heaven!

Along the reach of rocky beach
Oh, joy, it is to follow,
Where blooms the sea anemone
In every wave and hollow.

On giant rock that fronts the shock
The spray of gull's glistens,
While breaks the wave on cliff and cave
The flowers bend and listen.

I count the years by all my tears
And all the sea's sweet weather,
Saucy by night, by day of Monterey,
We wandered, love, together.

I walk along the changing shore,
Oh, sad and strange it seems!
And if you hear the billows roar,
You hear them but in dreams.

For to find you, no so many a day
Upon the shore of Monterey,
—Sally L. Sullivan in Overland Monthly.

FROGS EAT WASPS.

Some time ago, I discovered accidentally that frogs are voracious eaters of wasps. I have in my garden a tank for watering, with an island of rockwork, which is a favorite haunt of the frog. The wasps at present are carrying on a raid against my fruit, and when I wish to graze at once my revenge and my frog I catch a man and between a post card and an inverted glass, carry him off to the tank, where he is devoured by the frog, and set him on the rockwork, where he is devoured by the frog.

After a moment's pause a frog advances, and in an instant the wasp has disappeared, drawn into the frog's mouth by a single dart of his long tongue. Occasionally the wasp reappears, wholly or partially, having made it unpleasant for the frog, but he is almost always swallowed in the end. Usually convulsive movements may be noticed in the frog's throat and body, as though the process of deglutition were not quite easy, but that they like the diet is evident from the fact that a single smallish frog has been known to take three wasps, one after another.

Indeed it is remarkable what very small frogs, quite infants, will swallow a wasp with avidity. This afternoon a tiny frog swallowed a full grown wasp, when a big relative went for him quite savagely, like a big schoolboy thrashing a small one for presuming to be helped before him.—R. E. Bartlett in London Spectator.

She Followed His Lead.

There were seats enough for all except one young man, whose party of two pairs sat down near the door. It was the high spirits of this group of couples that prompted the suggestion by one of them that the standing young man should sit in the lap of his young woman for greater comfort. This he promptly did, and not being repulsed at there with great content to himself.

At Reno street a young Irish girl boarded the car. It was evident to every one that she was recently lauded, well intentioned and little informed.

She stood at the door a minute and looked bewildered up and down the filled seats. Then her eye fell upon a young man sitting at ease in a young woman's lap. She darted forward, and before any one had the slightest idea of her intention she seated herself as comfortably but firmly on the lap of the obnoxious man.

It was hard to tell which was the funniest, the agitation of the young man, the calm of the young woman or the hysterical laughter of the colored girl in the corner, who explained to the passengers between her peals:

"She thinks dem as comes first sits on de seats, an dem as comes next sits on de people."

Which was evidently just what she did think until the conductor came to the rescue.—New York Recorder.

Acute Vision of Birds.

Birds have very acute vision—perhaps the most acute of any creature—and the sense is almost more widely diffused over the retina than in the case with man; consequently a bird can see objects sideways as well as in front of it. A bird sees—showing great uneasiness in consequence—a hawk long before it is visible to man. So, too, fowls and pigeons find minute scraps of food, distinguishing them from what appear to us exactly similar pieces of earth or gravel. Young chickens are also able to find their own food, knowing its position and how distant it is as soon as they are hatched, whereas a child only very gradually learns either to see or to understand the distance of an object. Several birds—apparently the young of all those that nest on the ground—can see quite well directly they come out of the shell, but the young of birds that nest in trees or on rocks are born blind and have to be fed.—Chambers' Journal.

Don't You Know

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons' Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons' Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. W. Watson, Baltimore, Md. "It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtues of Simmons' Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it in cases of Indigestion, Biliousness, and Constipation, and it is the greatest medicine I have ever known for these troubles."

REPRESENTATION IN THE SENATE.

A movement is being inaugurated in the East to change the representation in the United States Senate. The promoters have issued a circular which states that 11,000,000 of people in the States of New York and Pennsylvania have four Senators; 11,000,000 from 22 States, one-half the whole number, have 44 Senators and 50,000,000 in 22 States, the other half, have 44 Senators. By way of emphasis it is stated that 29,000,000 have 68 Senators from 34 small States and 32,000,000 have 20 Senators from 10 other States. Special attention is directed to the fact that 45,761 people in Nevada have two Senators, the same representation as New York.

When the government of the United States was organized the small States, such as Delaware and New Hampshire, refused to enter the Union unless guaranteed equal representation with New York and Pennsylvania in the United States Senate. This guarantee was given them in the Constitution, Article I, Section III of which provides that "The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote." To change the representation in the Senate from States to population would require an amendment to the Constitution. Such an amendment would require the sanction of two-thirds of both houses of Congress, and of the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States. With such a change made by amendment there would be another obstacle in the way as Article V of the Constitution provides "that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of equal suffrage in the Senate" so our Eastern friends will gain nothing by advocating a change. Nevada has constitutional rights as well as New York and Pennsylvania, of which it cannot be deprived.

THE ELECTIONS AND THE SILVER QUESTION.

It is believed at Washington that the defeat of the Democracy in several States last Tuesday will result beneficially to silver. The representatives of that party in Congress are very nearly equally divided on the silver question. Those who advocate free coinage charge the recent reverses to the gold wing of the party. They claim that if Congress had not been convened in extra session to repeal the Sherman act, the party would be united; now a division is inevitable unless there is legislation favorable to silver. The West and the South are dissatisfied. They see that the prices of wheat, cotton and corn are controlled by the market value of silver. When the metal appreciates in value, the prices of farm products advance, while every decline in the price of silver causes a proportionate reduction in the price of nearly all products. If Eastern Democrats persist in following the leadership of Senator Sherman, then the silver members will dissolve partnership with them and join the Silver party.

When Congress convenes a bill to remonetize silver will be introduced. If it does not pass before the end of the session there will be a disruption of parties, as the members who represent silver constituencies cannot go into the Congressional fight next year and hope to be elected while advocating the success of the old parties, both of which are opposed to free coinage. No Democrat or Republican can reasonably hope to be elected to Congress in 1894 in any of the States west of the Mississippi, with the possible exception of a few districts in the Coast States.

OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION.

The Eureka Sentinel is opposed to the annexation of Utah to Nevada and has the following on the subject:

"Our neighbors in Utah are very much exercised over the proposition of annexing Utah to Nevada. The newspapers of that Territory also without exception are against the scheme, and there seems to be no anxiety on the part of the people of Nevada to annex Utah. Delegate Rawlings was interviewed in Washington a few days ago on the subject, and he said such a bill would never pass Congress for various reasons. In the first place, the people of both the State and Territory are opposed to it. Such a consolidation could not be made without the consent of the people of Nevada, and they would never give their consent. It would make a State 1,000 miles wide, and the only communication from one side to the other would be across a desert hundreds of miles wide."

The Gazette Publishing Company is a powerful corporation. It annihilated its Democratic allies one day this week and the next day it disposed of the Populists. It was ungrateful in it to kill its auxiliaries, but the Populists expected no mercy from it. Henceforth there will be but one goldbug party and no Silver party in the country, that is if the Publishing Company can help it.

It is a little remarkable that in the political land slide last Tuesday the Democrats elected a Congressman to fill a vacancy in the First Michigan District. That is the only position in any of the States in which elections were held that involved national issues; the others being State, county or municipal.

DISGUSTED WITH LIFE.

Major Husack Goes to Join His Old Commander.

SIX HUNTERS SNOWBOUND.

No Further Fear of an Indian Uprising in Idaho.

JOINED HIS COMMANDER.

Major Husack Dies by His Own Hand at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, November 9.—"I am going to join my old commander, Phil Sheridan," were among the last words of Major William H. Husack, a United States Army man. Major Husack put a bullet through his brain early this morning in a lodging house at 540½ South Spring street.

About 12 o'clock the body was found lying upon a cot in his room. In his hand was tightly clutched a revolver. No one in the house heard the fatal shot. At the inquest in the afternoon it was found that he had borrowed the revolver from J. B. Hutchinson, a salesman, several weeks ago.

Colonel L. S. Butler, an old friend of the deceased, said that Major Husack was at the head of the Commissary Department on General Sheridan's staff when "Little Phil" marched into the Shenandoah Valley in 1864. He was in the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Army when General McCook had his headquarters in this city, and when McCook went East Husack was transferred to Denver. Colonel Butler read a letter left him by Husack, in which the deceased stated that he had Bright's disease; that his mind was wandering and that he was going to join his old commander, Phil Sheridan. He emphasized his order to wrap his body in a blanket and bury him as the dead were buried during the war.

Husack borrowed a dollar from a friend early in the evening and went at once to the lodging house at 540½ South Spring street and secured a room. He had been wandering around Central Park all day, where he had written numerous notes and letters. Among his last messages was the following:

"I do not receive the money due me from parties in the East, nor has the National Benefit Trust Company, Incorporated, done as promised weeks ago.

"I have run in debt on account of this company and am now disgusted with life, as the company has so far failed to respond to my demands; and I have also failed to receive anything on account of my mining stocks in Idaho, so I am growing weaker in funds, health and mind, and as I have not a friend here I could ask to take charge or in any way relieve me I conclude, at high-noon to-day, to take charge of my future, and will visit my old commander, General Sheridan. This being election day in several Eastern States, I hope and pray the Republicans may win.

"Farewell to all of my companions and comrades of the war of the rebellion, of the United States Army and Navy; also all of my dear friends and relatives, and my dear Christian wife and my dearly beloved son.

"W. H. H."

Fears of an Indian Uprising Passed.

SPOKANE, Wash., November 9.—Messengers from Harrison, Idaho, this evening report all immediate danger of an Indian outbreak ended. Negotiations are now pending for the purchase of a mile square for the town site. Chief Wellshe, the leader of the Indian uprising, is reported to be stricken with typhoid fever. It is believed he was delirious when he ordered the white settlers evicted. Chief Saltese is now in charge of the Cour d'Alene reservation. He is friendly to the whites.

It is supposed that the traders of the rival town of Tekoa excited the trouble to ruin the Harrison merchants. One wealthy Tekoa merchant has offered to secure a treaty surrendering the Harrison town site to the Government for $1,500. The refugees now in Spokane will return to Harrison tomorrow.

A relief party has gone up to the St. Joseph river to investigate the report that three prospectors have been murdered by renegades.

Curtis in Boston.

Boston, November 9.—M. B. Curtis, the actor, is at the Parker House in this city. He registered yesterday under the name of James Powers, Sorrento, and kept out of the way until this afternoon, when he was recognized. He said he was in need of rest and came East to find it.

"It cost me $50,000 to defend myself in my trial for shooting a policeman in San Francisco," he said. "And as for getting out of California to avoid arrest for jury bribery, there is no truth in it."

"I had a great deal of trouble in dodging reporters on my way East, and the reported interview with me in a Denver paper is wholly without foundation."

SIX MEN SNOWBOUND.

A Son of General Carlin and Five Others in Peril.

SPOKANE, Wash., November 9.—William E. Carlin, a son of Brigadier-General W. P. Carlin, commanding the department of the Columbia, his brother-in-law, John Harvey Pierce, and A. H. Himmel Wright of New York are snowed in at the head of Clear Water river in the Bitter Root mountains, and grave fears are entertained for their safety.

Mr. Carlin and party left here September 20th for the head of the Clear-water on a hunting trip, expecting to return about November 1st. They had several packhorses and were accompanied by Martin Spencer as guide, besides a packer and cook, making six men in all.

Nothing was heard from the party until Mr. Randal of the Hotel Spokane received a letter from W. H. Wright of Missoula, a partner of Spencer, the guide of the party, saying:

"If Spencer has not got out of the mountains before now he will not get out before spring, as the snow is from four to six feet deep in the mountains, and it is impossible to get out any horses, unless it is this way, and even then one could not do so unless he went in from this way and took a pack-train of oats. It has snowed for a month in the range. I came out in about two feet of snow. Two men going out about a week ago started with six horses and got out with only two, and would not have got out then only for some Indians who helped them.

Captain Merriam then apprised General Carlin of the situation by telegraph. The General replied last night as follows:

"Thanks for the information. If possible go to Missoula and take or send a party to Willie's relief. Ask Colonel Burr, commanding at Fort Missoula, for a party of men and pack animals, subsistence and a guide to go to the relief of Willie and party. I will pay all expenses."

COLLISION AT CHICAGO.

Three Persons Killed and a Great Many Badly Injured.

CHICAGO, November 9.—By a rear-end collision on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad at Seventy-first street three people were killed and eleven injured.

The limited vestibuled express crashed into the rear end of the Blue Island accommodation, badly wrecking two coaches and the engine of the limited.

The accommodation train left the city a few minutes ahead of the limited and stopped at Seventy-first street. The limited bore down on it, it is said, at a rate of twenty miles an hour. A heavy fog had settled over the city and it was almost impossible to discern the signal. The engine of the limited plowed into the rear coach of the accommodation. The car was driven with terrific force into the end of the second coach. The explosion of a lamp ignited the woodwork and a fire soon began to spread rapidly. An alarm was immediately turned in, but before the department arrived a majority of the wounded and dead had been taken from the wreck. Some of the former, however, were badly burned.

THERE are four mints in the United States, one at Philadelphia, one at New Orleans, one at San Francisco and one at Carson City. Three of the mints are now running to their full capacity coining gold; the fourth, the Carson mint, is coining neither gold or silver. The coining of gold in October amounted to over $9,500,000, and it is expected that $20,000,000 more will be coined this month and next. There are $95,657,300 in gold bars in the treasury vaults, and it is probable the greater part of it will be coined during the winter.

The price of American eagles—twenty dollar gold pieces—has been reduced in London to 76 shillings and 9 pence per ounce. This is said to be for the purpose of protecting English sovereigns. London, for years, has fixed the price of American silver, and it now purposes regulating the price of gold. If England produced silver it would keep up the price of the metal and not let other nations do it, as the United States does.

PEOPLE FIND

That it is not wise to experiment with cheap compounds purporting to be blood-purifiers, but which have no real medicinal value. To make use of any other than the old standard AYER'S Sarsaparilla—the Superior Blood-purifier—is simply to invite loss of time, money, and health. POLITICIANS AND STATESMEN.

One Full of Temporary Expedients the Other of Eternal Principles.

Dr. Guard says: "There is a distinction and a difference between the politician and the statesman. The politician is full of temporary expedients; the statesman of eternal principles. The politician deems himself the center of the system of government; (who said Cleveland?) 'the statesman regards himself as but one of the lights around the government center. The politician thinks of himself; the statesman of his country; the politician feeds upon his country; the statesman dies for it. The politician honors the government by serving it; the statesman is honored by being permitted to serve it. The politician acts for the present; the statesman labors for the future. The politician travels in an ever-narrowing orbit; the statesman moves with majesty of step around a pathway ever amplifying. The politician surveys the States from the benches and through the fumes of an ale house; the statesman climbs the watch-tower of serene, truth-loving, philosophic contemplation, whence he can look both before and after, learning from the past how best to steer the vessel of the State through the unexplored ocean of the far-reaching future. The politician is inspired by love of self; the statesman by loyalty to principle. The politician is impelled by convenience; the statesman by conscience. The politician believes all men are liars; the statesman believes he can find some good in every man. The politician believes in chance, the statesman believes in God. The politician reaches his end by crawling in the serpent's food; the statesman walks with his eye gazing beyond the stars, and with step which beats time to the very music of God?"

These words of the eloquent son of Erin are "as apples of gold in pictures of silver!" How like a shriveled pigmy they make some of our politicians appear, who foolishly think they are statesmen!—Tehachapi Tribune.

WHEN A MAN IS MARRIED.

Man the Most Forgetful Creature in the World.

He came home tired from the busy day's work and his wife waited till he took his overcoat off and sat down. "Did you get the pins?" "Yes, dear." "And the ribbon?" "Yes." "And babbie's shoes?" "Yes." "And the wisp broom?" "Yes." "And a wick for the kitchen lamp?" "Yes." "And some matches?" "Yes, they are with the other bundles." "Did you see the man about the coal?" "It will be up on Monday." "And the man to take to the grate in the dining room?" "Yes, he's coming as soon as he can." "Did you see Mrs. Smith about the sewing society meeting?" "She said she'd come." "And-and-oh, yes, did you get a new shovel for the kitchen stove?" "N-o-o," he hesitated. "I forgot it." "What?" she cried. "What did you do that for? You know we needed that shovel, and I told you about it the very first thing when you went out this morning. I do think men are the most forgetful and careless creatures that ever lived!" And she flapped out to see about supper.—Exchange.

Confidence Sharps Warned.

The gang of confidence sharps who have been in Reno several months working passengers on the overland trains yesterday succeeded in catching another victim. They asked the passenger into one of the saloons to take a drink and got him to shake dice and "did him up" for ten dollars. The officers have informed the confidence men that they must move on immediately or suffer arrest. Several weeks ago the gang got $150 out of the Hawaiian Consul, who was passing through Reno on his way to the Islands. The gang always had an innocent looking person watching the trains who would pose as a jolly, good-natured traveler. He would select a victim, ask him to take a drink and entice him into a dice game with other members of the gang, the result being that the victim would lose his money and leave Reno a sadder, but wiser man. This kind of business should have been stopped before now, but none of those who were swindled could be induced to stay over here long enough to prosecute the bunko sharps.
